NUMBER 2

CONTENTS

FOREWORD

TOUGH LOVE: THE COURT OF APPEALS RUNS THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT THE OLD FASHIONED WAY

Linda R. Hirshman 191

In her Foreword to the issue, editor Linda R. Hirshman looks at a management matter — the court's efforts to impose demanding new standards of litigation conduct on the bar and on the trial bench whose decisions it reviews, concluding that the court's bark is worse than its bite, but that it is having an impact, nonetheless.

ARTICLES

A RETREAT FROM JUDICIAL ACTIVISM: THE SEVENTH CIRCUIT AND THE ENVIRONMENT

Robert L. Glicksman 209

Professor Robert L. Glicksman addresses the ten year long and ultimately ineffective efforts to achieve the cleanup of Waukegan Harbor. He demonstrates how the Seventh Circuit's decisions in the area symbolize a range of techniques by which the federal courts are retreating from judicial activism generally, as well as in environmental matters.

THE CONTRACTUAL DUTY OF COMPETENT REPRESENTATION

James D. Holzhauer 255

Professor James D. Holzhauer takes the Seventh Circuit's very high standard for plaintiffs in duty of fair representation cases as the jumping off place for suggesting a new duty of representation, based on separating the statutory standard of fairness from a higher standard to be derived from contract.

INJUNCTIONS BY THE NUMBERS: LESS THAN THE SUM OF ITS PARTS

Linda J. Silberman 279

Professor Linda J. Silberman explains and criticizes the court's efforts, beginning with Judge Richard Posner's suggestion of an algebraic formula, to refine the standards for issuance or denial of preliminary injunctions, concluding that the development may reflect the court's unhappiness with the current state of appellate control over that important decision.
